Harmon Releases Audit of Former Pendleton County Sheriff's Fee Account

FRANKFORT, Ky. – State Auditor Mike Harmon today released the audit of the 2022 financial statement of former Pendleton County Sheriff Edwin Quinn. State law requires the auditor to annually audit the accounts of each county sheriff. In compliance with this law, the auditor issues two sheriff's reports each year: one reporting on the audit of the sheriff's tax account, and the other reporting on the audit of the fee account used to operate the office.

Auditing standards require the auditor's letter to communicate whether the financial statement presents fairly the receipts, disbursements and excess fees of the former Pendleton County Sheriff in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. The former sheriff's financial statement did not follow this format. However, the former sheriff's financial statement is fairly presented in conformity with the regulatory basis of accounting, which is an acceptable reporting methodology. This reporting methodology is followed for all 120 sheriff audits in Kentucky.

As part of the audit process, the auditor must comment on noncompliance with laws, regulations, contracts, and grants. The auditor must also comment on material weaknesses involving the internal control over financial operations and reporting.

The audit contains the following finding:

The former sheriff's office did not have adequate segregation of duties: This is a repeat finding and was included in the prior year audit report as Finding 2021-001. The former sheriff's office did not have adequate segregation of duties over receipts and disbursements. All employees of the former sheriff's office could collect receipts. The office manager prepared the daily bank deposit and daily checkout sheet and then posted items to the receipts ledger. The office manager prepared the quarterly financial report and bank reconciliations that were agreed to the receipts and disbursements ledgers. The office manager prepared checks for disbursements including payroll and posted to the disbursements ledger. The former sheriff and office manager were the only authorized check signers. The former sheriff did not require dual signatures on checks; however, the former sheriff generally signed checks.

According to the former sheriff, due to the office having a small staff, it was very difficult to segregate duties over receipts and disbursements. By having the same employee primarily perform these functions, the risk that undetected errors or fraud could occur increases.

Good internal controls dictate that the same employee should not handle, record, and reconcile receipts and disbursements. If adequate segregation of duties is not possible, compensating controls by means of strong official oversight can be implemented to mitigate risks associated with the weakness. Examples of official oversight are:

- The sheriff could periodically compare the daily bank deposit to the daily checkout sheet and then compare the daily checkout sheet to the receipts ledger when prepared by another employee. The sheriff would document this review process by initialing the daily checkout sheets and deposit slips.
- The sheriff could review the quarterly financial report and compare amounts reported on the receipts and disbursements ledger.
- Bank statements could be reconciled regularly by another person. If this is not possible, the sheriff could review the bank reconciliation and document the review process by dating and initialing the bank statement, along with the reconciliation sheets.

We recommend the sheriff's office adequately segregate duties over receipts and disbursements as outlined above. If the sheriff cannot feasibly separate the processes, he could implement compensating controls to offset this weakness with strong management oversight.

Former Sheriff's Response: The former official did not provide a response.

The sheriff's responsibilities include collecting property taxes, providing law enforcement and performing services for the county fiscal court and courts of justice. The sheriff's office is funded through statutory commissions and fees collected in conjunction with these duties.
